Staff will be present during the evening, however, students are expected to be under parent/adult supervision for the entire evening.

We have our fingers crossed that the weather will be fine. In the event of rain, the Learning Exhibition will continue but the old fashioned games and band will have to be cancelled.

We hope to see as many families as possible on the night.

Hope everyone has had a great week.

Our recital is held at 3pm on Saturday 3rd September, at Melton Christian College, 152-156 Brooklyn Rd Brookfield.

Writing By Our 3/4 Writers

We were discussing leads in our classroom and their purpose.

An interesting lead captures the attention of your audience.

Lily’s lead…

The sun rises in cold air. As the moon sets for night, you can feel the breeze.

Claire’s lead…

*It was a scorching summer’s day.
Sienna sat under the new, big oak tree. It was new. Everything was new and unfamiliar.*

Alex K’s lead…

One winter’s day, the sun’s beaming rays made us think it was summer! It was 20 degrees! What a scorcher!

That’s exactly what Edith did! Here’s her introduction to her story “Destiny”

Kira and Violet were at the seaside. Violet was sitting at the water’s edge watching the fish swim, while Kira was on the sand letting the fresh, salty air fill her nostrils.

Then, Kira started to fall asleep. A giant wave was heading towards them. She opened her eyes. Screaming and shouting met her ears. Violet came running up to her. “There’s a tsunami coming!...”

Then, there was a big silence. Kira let out a high pitch scream!

Akeelah’s lead…

The sun rises in cold air. As the moon sets for night, you can feel the breeze.

Anthony’s lead…

*One sunny morning, Mike was on the edge of a pitch dark lake, casting his line in the open water.
Suddenly a pull. A surprising and strong pull. Fish on, he thought.*

Jasleen’s lead…

*One drizzly morning, little rain was falling. The leaves were whispering. Drop, drop, onto the window.
Huge, big drops of rain started.
One bird raced past.
How was it flying?
One leaf danced across the wet, grassy lawn.*

Maddison’s lead…

Rain is pouring outside. You may even see a little crack of sunshine come through if you’re lucky.

Crystal’s lead…

I’m in my room and it’s pouring outside. I’m laying on my soft, warm bed, having nothing to do.

Lana’s lead…

*The people of Villa Village thought that they were normal people catching buses, swimming through pools and going to schools. Really they were...
But wait, we’re getting to far ahead in the story. Let’s take a few steps back...*

The Uplift Collective proudly presents
The Annual Father’s Day Breakfast

Take your hero and Fly

Friday 2nd September 2016
8:00-9:00 am
in the gym
Gold Coin Donation

This Father’s Day, the Uplift Collective warmly welcomes you to bring your hero along to our annual breakfast. Well once again be converting the gymnasium into a little haven where you and your hero can take flight and make memories.

The Uplift Collective will be setting up a DIY Father’s Day Photo Booth, a card-making and paper airplane crafting table, a range of board games to battle with your hero, poetry readings from our students and some very special gratitude cards. Not to mention our tasty, self-serve breakfast.

We have made some super cool HERO caps for you to pre-order and we'll have a little stand set up on the day selling small things to make your hero smile.

We hope you can come fly.

After the Fathers’ Day Breakfast
Friday 2nd Sept 8:45am-10:00am

Join us on the oval to complete our mulching of native shrubs and grasses, donated by Melbourne Water and Friends of Kororoit Creek.

These plants will provide a habitat for small birds, butterflies, skinks and insects. The mulch that we lay down will provide a protective layer around the plants, preventing moisture loss during the hot summer, and attracting beneficial microbes, insects and worms into the soil.

If you have extra wheelbarrows and shovels please bring them along.

Stay for as little or as long as you like
